Is your conservatory too hot to use in the Summer, too cold to sit in during the Winter and too noisy when it rains? Yes? Then let us do something about it. Read what our customers have to say...

“5* people, product and company. We’ve just had the conservatory roof replaced and was nervous if the claims of extra warmth and sound insulation were true and worth the cost of the job. The answer is a big Yes. Great to deal with genuine people who know their stuff and care about the job they do. Happy to answer questions people may have and would recommend without hesitation. “

Mr. H, Woodingdean

“Adam and Mick worked tirelessly and ensured we were happy with what they were doing throughout the installation. Everything was cleaned to perfection and nothing seemed too much to ensure the job was completed to our satisfaction. They are a credit to your firm.”

Mr & Mrs. O, Worthing

No matter the shape or style a ‘comfispac’ insulated roof will change your conservatory into an all year round useable room.

It's much quieter and warmer in here already! We are really pleased with the effect of the new panels. Please feel free to use photographs and we want to show it to other people, it is an excellent job and I have some local friends who are interested in doing their roof too. The guys that came were great; polite, friendly, cleaned up and took all the waste away as agreed. It is a great and efficient job."

When Mr and Mrs C moved into their house in October, they inherited a polycarbonate roofed conservatory that was open to the kitchen and lounge.

Having had a conservatory before, they knew how hot and cold it could get but had not anticipated the knock-on effect on the other rooms; the noise and the glare made all three spaces uncomfortable, with the conservatory often unusable. They did not want to just insulate under the existing polycarbonate roof, nor did they like the idea of lightweight tiles as these are about six times heavier than the existing panels; not to mention all of the hassle of Building Control. Once they had seen our advert and after a detailed discussion on the phone, they booked an appointment. Furthermore, after the meeting had taken place, everything had been explained, and all questions had been answered, they agreed that the price was right and immediately authorised us to book their job in.

Six weeks later, the project was completed in one day and, as you can see from their comments, the whole process was a success. Now they cannot wait to enjoy their new garden room through the warmer months and on into the cooler seasons.
